Course Description and Objectives:

This course studies basic statistical concepts and their applications. Major topics include: descriptive statistics; probability distributions; sampling; estimation; hypothesis testing; regression and correlation analysis. Students should have knowledge of elementary differential and integral calculus, and are advised to take ECON1111 before taking this course.

Upon successful completion of this course, students should demonstrate their mastery of the basic knowledge of statistical concepts and techniques, develop their statistical thinking and reasoning skills, and feel comfortable in applying the statistical techniques and thinking in analyzing data.

Recording:

Audio and/or video recording of the class is prohibited.

Requirements:

- 1. Class participation (5% bonus). You are required to come to class on time. We will randomly have a few attendance checks.
- 2. Four problem sets (20%).
- 3. Midterm exam (35%).
- 4. Final exam (45%). Final examination will be cumulative, but will emphasize the materials after the midterm exam.

Key Dates:

- 1. Problem sets will go out about every other week, and you will have about one week to do them. No late problem sets are accepted. If you choose to submit it late, a 50% discount is applied for each day after the due date. The number of days is rounded upward, e.g., 1 day 1 hour is rounded up to 2 days.
- 2. The midterm exam is scheduled at class time on February 28 (Wed).
- 3. The date of the final exam will not be known till April as it is centrally scheduled by the University. Early departure before the end of the exam period is NOT a valid reason for absence from the final exam. Ensure that you are available on these exam dates, as exams will not be rescheduled for any student for any reason.
