

THE CHINESE UNIVERSITY OF HONG KONG
DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS

ECON3021
INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMIC THEORY

COURSE SYLLABUS
(2021-2022 First Term)

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Macroeconomics is the study of economic aggregates, focusing on the aggregate behavior of large collection of economic agents. This one-semester course is divided into two major parts – Long-run and Short-run macroeconomics. In the Long-run part of the course, we will cover topics such as economic growth and development, inflation and equilibrium unemployment, government debt and the public pension system.

In the Short-run part of the course, we focus mainly on theories of business cycles. Macroeconomic models based on microfoundations will be discussed. In addition, we will study basic monetary and banking models, public finance, and international macroeconomics. Major historical macroeconomic events will also be analyzed, and optional topics will be added if time permits.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

After completing this course, students should be able to:

1. Understand the importance of economic growth and development, and the theories that seek to explain reasons for economic growth.
2. Handle macroeconomic models both graphically and algebraically.
3. Evaluate the effects of macroeconomic policies and shocks on the domestic economy in the short run and how macroeconomic aggregates are determined in the long run.
4. Understand the functioning of fixed and flexible exchange rate regimes.
5. Understand the theoretical and practical limitation of central bank independence.
